

Are you policing social distancing?

No, this is Scottish Government guidance, not regulations. The police have no power to enforce guidance. People need to take individual responsibility for following the guidance, remembering that it is designed to stop the virus spreading.